BETHLEHEM STEEL AT 125

Stock Is Marked Up Deliberately, but Work Is So Brazen It Deceives Few, and Sends Chill Through Whole Market.

NEW TORK, April 12.-To-day's stock mar-ket was orderly and at times even dignified. There was the expected accumulation of out-of-town buying orders. These were partly filled by London selling of some 0.000 shares. Considerable local realizing also fed the demand, and floor traders played for a reaction on the report that stop-loss orders 2 or 2 points below prices were rapidly pilling up. In the early afternoon Bethlehem Steel was deliberately marked up to 12. This figure had been predicted last week, which would indicate that the sensational advance is by an means normal. Prices There was the expected accumulation of which would indicate that the sensational advance is by no means normal. Prices softened under this move and closing prices were generally at the bottom.

An encouraging feature was the large number of purchases made for cash, the sarest kind of buying under present conditions when a sharp satback of 2 to 3 points is hopefully looked for.

London houses sold Southern Pacific, Erie, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Amaigamated. It was a matter of comment that no offerings of Steel common were made in London. no offerings of Steel common in London.

Steel had a lively opening and then drifted out of the spotlish: Pittsburgh houses were among the largest huyers. Specialists on comparing notes of Friday and Saturasy's tradings, agreed that the days indinot been profitable to them, as they had been whipsawed in their trades.

copper before July 1 is in a fair way of being realized.

"Bethlehem Steel will sell at 125. Then look out." That was the Street gossip last week. At to-day's opening the price touched 107, about 2 o'clock it crossed the previous record of 117, and at 2126, it touched 125. This sent a chill through the whole market. The brazen work of marking up quotations was apparent to nearly everybedy outside of Stock Exchange circles.

International Motors closed an order for $1000,000 worth of trucks and accessories, on Friday, presumably for the English. The company already had on hand advance business of a full million dollars and negotiations are under way for a large order said to be for the Russian government. Business already booked will keep the plants running day and night until October 1, and officials state a decided turn for the better has come. Trading in the bond markets was active. Technically, the stock market is much weaker than at any time in the past four months. Large blocks of stocks have passed from strong hands to weaker holders. Many purchases were mide with the idea of a quick speculative turn, and these holdings probably will be promptly shaken out when the overdue reaction occur.

NEW YORK. April 12.—Irregularity which hordered upon reaction towards the close was dominant note of to day's stock market. Trading was active enough at all times to indicate that speculative interests were still in control, but the course of prices suggested not only further seeing for profits by home and foreign interests, but a renewal of hearish aggression; as well.

Insettlement, was most pronounced in the linal hour, when lie thiehem once more became the center of a feverish buying movement which sent the price up to 125, or a points above its previous record figure. The stock closed at 12, a net gain for the day of 16 points. As heretofore no reasonable explanation for the rise was obtainable, and stock market observers excibed the move as a further driving in of shorts. United Stries Steel held its recently acquired prominence for the greater part of the session. At best it soid within it point of last week's figure price, but in commen with the general list fell back in final dealings.

Other leaders, like Union Facific, Reading and some of the divisiond onlying shares failed to equal recent high quotations. Amalgamated Copper being the only important everytion. Motor shares were hoteworthy to their heaviness with losses of 2 to over $100. ints.

CHICAGO. April 12.—The wheat market has again switched around to an abnormal position. The market for all the futures is in an oversoid position, and, while the cash market was weak to-day, the futures were up 7s to 25c. The May was the strongest of the list, as shorts rushed to cover and were willing to pay advances in order to get out of long wheat. The inquiry from importing nations was reported as having fallen off to small proportious, and in case the situation becomes any weaker there doubtless will be a price break in the futures. The market opened sharply higher, with an upturn of nearly 2 cents for the May and over 1c for the July, followed by a further advance of $\frac{3}{2}$ to ic. About half of the early strength dwindled sway later, as the decrease in the visible supply of 1.24,000 bushels was less than expected. There was some prominent solling of wheat at Minneapolls, where stocks decreased 180,000 bushels for two days. Savings RICHMOND sending in these claims said that it will take at least another week before actual crop conditions can be determined. The cash sales here were almost mit but New York reported 350,000 bushels sold there since last Saturday. Minneapolis reported a lot of wheat sold to go to Philadelphia, and Duluth and Winnipeg said exporters bought both cash and futures.

The more conservative concerns in the trade are advising steering clear of the relling side of wheat unless sales can be made at advances. They believe very little more wheat will be sold in this country, and that the surplus on the appearance of the new crop will be the lowest in many years.
